Case - Timothy N. Pfeiffer,
Subject - Homicide, New Brunswick, N.J., 312/undercover
Operative - 312.

November 28, 1922. Continuing on the above matter, Operative proceeded to the Middlesex Lunchroom, arriving there at about 8.30 a.m.

Upon leaving the Middlesex Lunchroom, Operative proceeded to the railroad station and joined Danny Kenny.

Danny Kenny informed Operative that a Reporter had told him how Mrs. Hall had gone over to the Court House at Somerville, N.J.

After a short time Operative left the railroad station and proceeded about town, again returning to the railroad station at about 4 p.m.

While at the railroad station, Operative entered in conversation with Danny Kenny, and a man by the name of Daly. Danny Kenny remarked, "Well I thought it would turn out that way, as I know and have seen most of the Jury men and they just look like the kind that could be bought. I also know Gibb, and I sized him up right away." Danny Kenny further informed Operative that he was acquainted with, Mr. Mills, and that he (Danny) at one time had worked with Mills, and always found him to be a good hard working fellow. Danny Kenny further stated that he did not think that Mills had anything to do with it in anyway.

From Danny Kenny's remarks it would seem that most of the people believe that Gorsline is the one who did the job.

Operative observed Mr. DeM. and Mr. P. arrive at the railroad station in automobile bearing New Jersey State License #015-537.

Upon conclusion of the conversation with Danny Kenny, and Daly, Operative left the railroad station and proceeded about town.

The feeling in regards to the action of the Grand Jury at Somerville, is somewhat divided - whereas some people feel elated, others believe it a miscarry of justice.

It seems that a man who conducts a lunchroom on Albany Street across
